THE PRESIDENTIAL CAMPAIGN.

Speech of Hon. Wm. A. Wheeler.

St Albans, Vt., Aug 26—A large Republican rally was held to-night, but the thunder storm prevented an illumination Wm A Wheeler arrived this evening and was greeted with a salute In response to a serenade he spoke as follows

Republicans of St Albans—You honor the cause of which just now I am a prominent representative I was placed in nomination as the Republican nominee for Vice President in the national convention by the action of the States of Vermont and Massachusetts. It is the greatest honor of my life that the Republicans of these States deem me sufficiently grounded in the New England faith to permit me to be one of the representatives of their ideas in the pending canvass. [applause] In the matter of my faith I trust they have made no mistake. [Applause.] I believe in New England. I believe in Plymouth Rock for they are convertible terms One of the most gifted of New England's sons has said that Plymouth Rock is no quartz—it is a perfect stone cut out of the mountain without hands, and hands cannot prevent it from becoming a great mountain, filling the whole earth Every church, every school house, every town and house from the Atlantic to the Pacific, has Plymouth Rock for its foundation stone. Wherever freedom aims a musket or raises a standard, or sings a song or makes a protest there is Plymouth Rock freedom. The church, the school house, the town house, these, my friends, form the very cardinal principles of the Republican party. I have often thought, often said, that the commonwealth of Vermont composed and illustrated the complete realization of the highest ideal of a republican form of government. Where else can you find such general intelligence, the result of your free popular system of education? Where so much of fidelity and economy in the administration of State affairs? Where so much respect for civil rights of each and all people as in the State of Vermont? It is the mission of the Republican party to confer upon all people of this country, in all the States and all the Territories, the [illegible] privileges which you in Vermont enjoy It is the duty to which, in this Centennial year of our nation, we ought to address ourselves with renewed attention and fidelity. I have no purpose here to-night, my friends, to recall the memorable conflict through which this nation has passed and which has made American arms forever illustrious, but let us never forget the obligations resting upon us to secure ourselves and those who follow after us, and never my friends were these obligations more apparent than now We are already engaged in another conflict with the opponents of the party which saved the nation and which to-day protects our integrity and guards its honor as it did in 1860 We are once more my friends, face to face with a united South with the Democratic party of the North as its subservient and pliant ally in every slave State in the Union where this confidence party is dominant, It claims and may receive 130 votes in the Electoral College It has complete control of the Lower House and the balance of power in the Senate There is not to-day in these late slave States any man holding a prominent position who was not engaged in the great struggle against the government. Not in Kentucky can you find a man in any position whatever who was not engaged on the rebel side. This is the condition of the south to-day. I sat for months during last winter in Congress by the side of sixty one men, who, a few years since, with arms in their hands, were engaged in the attempt to break up the government I have heard those men defend hellish atrocities of Libby, Andersonville and Salisbury I have heard Lincoln maligned, I have heard defended the right of a Virginia Justice of the peace to detain and open the mails of the United States Can you tell me where is the difference in spirit which twenty years ago led the Missouri border ruffians into Kansas, and the massacre at Hamburg in which a regularly organized militia company were first disarmed and then murdered in cold blood in order that the white race might assert their superiority? My official relations have called me during the past two or three years into the Southern States and I tell what I know, my friends of the real feeling of the Southern people regarding the reconstruction acts and the amendment acts to the constitution in reference to slavery and the laws for the protection of freedom As the French provinces did their cession to Prussia at the point of the bayonet It is to the South my friends, with this spirit and with the Democratic party of the North as its pliant ally that we are asked to turn over the government of the United States, with all its powers of legislation with all its machinery of taxation No such proposition for audacity has its parallel in the history of this country What is the spirit of the Democratic party? Do you want to prove what the Democratic party of the North still is? Go to Washington see fifty soldiers crippled in the service of the Union turned out of the House to make room for as many rebel soldiers. This is the evidence of the spirit of the Northern Democrats My friends we confront the old issue You must not underrate the strength of the south and its allies in the North you ask if it can be avoided? I tell you yes it can be avoided in the old way and in the old way only You must not underrate the strength of this alliance. I have an abiding faith that the conscience of the nation will be sufficiently awakened to avert this great point under the lead of the gallant Hayes who conducted himself on the field of battle as an honest man plain man the man who has evinced great ability in his administration of affairs of the State of Ohio Under Hayes the Republicans will again achieve a new triumph [Applause ] What shall be your duty in this canvass? I tell you freemen of Vermont what I know The Democrats are making great efforts to reduce the Republican majority in this State Will you permit this friends [Voices no no ] The banner of Vermont was never yet trailed on the battle field Let your ballot protect the work so effectively done by your bayonets at Gettysburg and on many a field of strife As you value good government as you value the sacrifices of the past as you hope for the future for your devotion to the cause of the Union be proved by your ballots on the first Tuesday of November next may the star which never sets beam with new effulgence to light the other States to victory [Great and prolonged applause ]

London Times on British Columbia Affairs—Indignant Canadians.

Toronto Aug 27—The Globe to day has a cablegram containing a summary of an editorial in the London Times founded on a dispatch via San Francisco concerning the alleged excitement in British Columbia The Times says the Pacific railway being promised British Columbia entered the Dominion Mr. Mackenzie embarrassed by financial difficulties and Canadian discontent threw the Pacific railway scheme overboard At this crisis in the confederation Lord Dufferin intervenes and visits Vancouver Island to tranquilize the excited feelings of the colonists The Columbians are excited and to the quiet is a political impossibility Canadians must be told they are playing fast and loose with a solemn engagement, jeopardizing their young national credit and discrediting the English name of which they profess to be proud The Globe characterizes the Times article as ignorant and supercilious and says Mackenzie is not hampered by financial difficulties, the Pacific railway scheme has not been thrown over [illegible] that any crisis has occurred in the Confederation is mere rubbish that Lord Dufferin's visit [illegible] pleasure and taunts the Times which is [illegible] ready to draw its inspiration respecting Canada from telegrams emanating from Americans [illegible]

THE SIOUX CAMPAIGN.

The Indians in Full Retreat.

Chicago Aug 26—A special to the Times from the Yellowstone expedition by steamer Josephine near the mouth of the Yellowstone via Bismarck August 27th says since the junction of Crook and Terry it is hoped to overtake and force a fight with the Sioux The command moved west to the Big Horn mountains where on the 11th a trail five or six days old and two miles wide being the heaviest ever seen on the prairies, was discovered This trail finally separated The Indians are found to be in full retreat—one band heading north toward the British possessions with the probable intention of crossing the line and the other going south along the Little Missouri for the purpose of crossing the Missouri river near Fort Berthold There is every indication that the hostiles have been heavily reinforced by agency Indians They have their families with them and evidently intend remaining north this winter The army has a difficult programme and it will be almost miraculous if they overtake the savages, who are well mounted When the supplies are exhausted the soldiers will have to return to supply camp General Miles commanding the 5th infantry returned to camp on Rosebud on the 12th inst. He was instructed to patrol the river north of Fort Buford and intercept any band attempting to cross the Yellowstone moving north and also to construct winter quarters at the mouth of Tongue river for one regiment of infantry The steamers Far West Josephine Carroll and Yellowstone have been placed at his disposal and supplies for his command are being rapidly shipped up the river from Buford The steamers Carroll and Far West will be employed patrolling the river General Miles command has been reinforced by two companies of the 17th Infantry and other troops, giving him a total of about 800 men Terry's supply camp has been moved to the mouth of the Tongue river as the base of supplies during the campaign The steamers are well guarded and supplies in camp strongly defended The garrison has three Gatling guns and several Rodman guns, and the steamer Josephine has on board three Gatling pieces for the garrison Sharp work may be expected on the southern bank of the Yellowstone before the war ends

The War Practically a Failure

A later dispatch August 22d near the mouth of Powder river says the practical failure of the campaign thus far has caused a change in the plan of operations and the government will now continue the war until the Indians are subdued or return to their reservations.

It is almost assured that the scout now being made by the combined forces of Crook and Terry will be unsuccessful and the troops will probably return to mouth of Tongue river by the 27th inst The command will then refit for another dash, which it is supposed will be more successful Gen Miles winter quarters will accommodate 1 500 men and if the troops do not have a successful engagement with the Indians before the 15th Sept that number will probably be left on the Yellowstone for the winter The 5th Infantry under Gen Miles and 5th Cavalry under Gen Merritt two of the finest regiments in the service will remain in winter quarters and if necessary additional numbers will be kept in quarters Thus the campaign will be extended till late in the season, and if necessary resumed early in the spring It is thought sufficient supplies can be forwarded for troops before winter sets in The campaign will be full of hardship but not so dangerous as the previous season's murderous work There are evidences of Indians along the Yellowstone but every precaution is being taken to keep advised of their movements and a fight is not improbable The troops will occupy quarters on Tongue river by Sept. 20th

A still later dispatch dated Aug 23d via Bismarck, says Crook and Terry after following the trail discovered on the 12th, moved 85 miles down the Rosebud The northern trail was abandoned on the 14th and the command pursued the southern trail crossed Tongue river to Goose Creek, thence returned to Powder river and followed it to the mouth which they reached on the night of the 18th where they went into camp and will remain till the 24th The wagon train and all the supplies at the mouth of Tongue river are being shipped to the mouth of Powder river and it is expected that the wagon train will reach there to-morrow morning The Indian trail diverged from the east bank of Powder river about twenty miles from its mouth south again toward the Little Missouri, whence the command will follow speedily The entire command is short of supplies and unless otherwise ordered, Terry will march such as are not needed to Fort Abraham Lincoln [illegible] The command will scout toward the Black Hills and, via Fetterman, home

Indians Returning to the Agencies Campaign Closed.

Crook and Terry both think it too late for extended field operations The Indians on the southern trail are believed to be moving toward the agencies and Terry will if possible intercept them The campaign is therefore practically closed unless further instructions come from the Lieutenant General

Recruits for the Indian Army.

The New Loans

The Tribune's Washington special says The Secretary of the Treasury says the greatest difficulty he had to contend with and which caused his conferences about the new 4½ per cent loan with representatives of the large banking houses to be so protracted was that he could not get them to harmonize among themselves The foreign bankers wanted to monopolize the whole loan and signified at first they wanted all or none to which effect they cabled here and a regular series of communications was continued, which consumed much time Secretary Morrill, however felt he ought not to allow the whole of so important a loan to be taken entirely by foreign capitalists, and thought those of this country ought to be considered so far as they possessed ability and disposition to handle it Hence he applied himself to organizing the individuals in treaty with him to an American and a European syndicate, both to operate in accord with one another He could not in the discretion given him by Congress consent to the loan being monopolized in Europe and he feels therefore highly gratified at the result remembering when he came here in 1861 our national obligations went begging and were below par and we were paying at the rate of 12 per cent. interest while now a bond at so low interest compared with what have been paid before is sought eagerly and a struggle made to take it all up at once. Negotiation of the 4 per cents has not received any positive attention yet but Secretary Morrill thinks there would be no difficulty if deemed advisable to place the whole amount of 4 per cents authorized by the act of July 14th

Postal Changes.

Surveying Plans Postponed

It was contemplated by the Secretary of the Navy to fit out the sailing vessel Portsmouth at present the training ship at Mare Island California navy yard for the purpose of making a running survey of the coast of Guatemala but on an examination of the vessel it has been found that the cost of repairing her would be greater than was at first estimated and therefore the idea of sending the vessel to that coast has been abandoned for the present Efforts have been made for the past three or four years to obtain an appropriation of $150 000 for the construction of two schooners and one small steamer similar to those used in coast survey for the purpose of surveying in the Pacific ocean and at the same time to look after American interests in those waters. Much good has been accomplished by surveying and taking soundings in the Pacific but the necessity of two or three smaller vessels has been seriously felt and should Congress make appropriations for their construction they could be kept in service at comparatively small cost and render valuable aid to our commerce on the Pacific

Intended Inspection of Western Military Posts

Secretary Cameron will return here this week and will leave again early in September in company with General Sherman for a tour of inspection of Fort Leavenworth military prison and various military posts in the West

A Sad Coincidence

Washington Aug 27—It is mentioned as a sad coincidence that the journey of Hon T W Ferry president of the Senate to Washington last fall just previous to the opening of the session was to attend the obsequies of Vice President Wilson presiding officer of the Senate and his journey home at the close of the session was with the remains of Mr Kerr the presiding officer of the House The action of Mr Ferry in delaying his departure from Washington when he received the intelligence of the death of Mr Kerr in order that he might pay a tribute of respect to the dead statesman and accompany his remains to their final resting place is spoken of as appropriate and the friends of the deceased express their approbation of the thoughtful courtesy of the presiding officer of the Senate

Gov. Tilden's Explanation of the Charge of False Swearing

Chicago Aug [illegible]—The Tribune's Washington special says There has been much uneasiness here for some days among the Democratic managing congressional committee over the charge that Tilden swore falsely in connection with his income They have been anxiously awaiting explanations from New York admitting the seriousness of the matter unless it could be satisfactorily met The explanation of Tilden's secretary that the railroad fees were not entirely his income for 1862 although received in that year was not accepted here by the Democrats and some of them even questioned the authority of the dispatch from Albany attributing so thin an excuse to the secretary until one of Tilden's recognized New York organs arrived last night with a formal editorial defense based on the same grounds However all are shrewd enough to see that the defense will not answer The brevity of the charge the ease with which all classes of voters comprehend it and the convincing nature of the few sentences of proof which establish it are the elements of the case which cause so much trouble It is really the only charge that has given Tilden's followers here real concern

The Miridis are a powerful tribe of Roman Catholic Albanians, dwelling between Lake Scutari and Podgaritza Since the beginning of the war the Turks and Montenegrins have been competitors for their aid This alliance is supposed to be the result of an order from the Vatican.

The War at an End.

A Belgrade telegram to the Times says It is almost certain that the war is about at an end The Servians are ignorant of the fact that their government is suing for peace. The news of Tchernayoff's victory is spreading like wildfire, and there is great rejoicing over the success At this time it is important as it will be used by the war party but may help Servia to secure better terms Important diplomatic action on the part of the powers and armistice between Turkey and Servia may be expected immediately Turkey will ask for permanent occupation by her troops at certain Servian fortresses and war indemnity.

Vienna, Aug 26—It is asserted here that at the preliminary peace negotiations between the signers of the treaty of Paris, including Russia, it was proposed as a basis of arrangement that Prince Milan should be retained on the throne Servia pay a war indemnity, and Turkey have the right of placing garrisons in Servian fortresses on Turkish frontiers Ragusa, Aug 26—A battle is imminent near Podgaritza Dervish Pasha has taken command of the troops in Albania. It is stated Mirdites' powerful tribe of Roman Catholic Albanians will remain neutral.

The Sultan's Condition.

A special from Therapia represents that persons surrounding the Sultan are determined that the state of his health be made known. Dr Leidersdorff, in his report to the Turkish government, says the Sultan is suffering from a purely nervous complaint The correspondent adds that the truth of the matter is that Murad's brain is crazed and the man is a mere wreck He is never left alone, and the country is really without a head Dr Leidersdorff is almost a prisoner in the palace, and is denied communication with his friends

Vienna, Aug 26—Political Correspondence reports the chances of the Sultan's recovery diminish daily and the Ministers are seriously considering the question of the approaching change in the succession. The eventual successor, Habdul Hamdid, has put himself in directly in communication with the powers, notably Austria for the purpose of preparing the way for a general understanding on pending questions All the powers have favorably received this step

An Unfortunate Error.

MONDAY MORNING, AUGUST 28, 1876.

THE INDIAN CAMPAIGN A FAILURE.

The campaign against the Sioux which opened so inauspiciously for us, is likely to terminate without another great battle. Sitting Bull evidently appreciates the wisdom embalmed in the saying—"He that fights and runs away, may live to fight another day"—having inflicted a severe blow upon our troops he now evades Terry and Crook, and is careful to prevent them from having an opportunity to avenge the slaughter of the gallant Custer and his brave men.

If Sitting Bull were really what the Baltimore Gazette's story represented him—a graduate of West Point—one would think he had in his mind the struggle between the Parthians and the Romans, in which the former employed against the latter the same tactics which Sitting Bull has thus far so successfully practiced. But that story was a pure fiction, and Sitting Bull is guided in the conduct of his part of the campaign by no other skill or science than that which he possesses in common with other bold and warlike savages.

The character of the country which he occupies is well adapted to the style of warfare Indians prefer. It affords the best opportunities for lying in wait, striking a sudden, fierce blow and then escaping through narrow defiles and over rough mountains. Our army, with its cumbersome supply and ammunition trains, is unable to pursue as swiftly as the Indians can retreat. If the latter are cornered and find themselves unable to make their escape in a body, they disperse, having agreed upon a place of meeting, and disappear, some going to the agencies, some to friendly tribes and the rest wandering about in small bands, too small to be worth attacking. Our army then finds itself without an antagonist and is obliged to return to camp. It is in this way that, without discredit to themselves or their men, Crook and Terry have been compelled to let the season pass away without accomplishing anything. If the Indians would stand—if there was any way of making them stand—the war could soon be brought to a satisfactory termination. As it is, the end seems to be now no nearer than it was three months ago.

Among civilized nations the dispersing of an army is its destruction, for the opposing army then takes possession of its adversary's territories and occupies his [illegible]. But with savages it is different. They have no fields to be laid waste, no towns to be burned or held; no wealth, save a few ponies to be lost, and no [illegible] to be broken up. Wherever there is grain, grass and water there is [illegible]. Hence the only result of occupying a given portion of the country inhabited by savages is to drive them to some [illegible] where they will, probably, be as well or better off.

[illegible] to subdue the Indians in this way is not, we think, the best. War is the only course just at present, for it having commenced it must be [illegible] until, by a decisive victory, the army has recovered the prestige which, in the opinion of the Indians, it has lost. To end the contest now would be to leave an impression in the minds of the Indians exceedingly unfavorable and injurious. The Indians must be beaten and well beaten in at least one great battle, or they will believe their own race invincible, and renew the struggle on the first occasion.

Besides, if we are to change our policy toward the Indians, we must treat with them as victors granting terms to the conquered. To make proposals to the Indians now would seem to them to be acknowledging our inability to fight successfully. We must have a decisive victory—one which the Indians themselves will acknowledge and feel. Then let the plan proposed by Bishop Whipple, or one embodying its distinctive features, be adopted and carried out, so that each Indian may be enabled to acquire a transferable title to and possession of a certain parcel of land. Let him understand that it is his own property, with which, under certain restrictions, he may do as he likes. Teach them to cultivate this land and to look to it for means of subsistence. Help them to live until they have learned to earn a living; use all the agencies to break up tribal allegiance and teach the Indians to regard themselves as do the Choctaws and Cherokees, as part of the people of the United States, not as semi-foreign nations with whom treaties are to be made.

It may take a long time to carry out such a plan. Perhaps the Indians could be exterminated, if that is what is desired, more quickly by making persistent war upon them. But the Indians are our fellow creatures, and we dare not treat them as wild beasts. They are ignorant of all that we know, and we cannot expect them to regulate their conduct according to our rules of guidance; and they are "the nation's wards," and as their guardian the nation is bound to care for them, and, so far as it is possible, to uplift them from their state of savage degradation and soften their manners and not permit them to be brutal. Therein would be our highest and greatest glory, outshining far in its pure radiance the lurid light of conquest and devastation.

IS IT HONEST?

Among the reasons given for paying off the bonds of the United States in greenbacks is this, that the principal of the bonds ought not to be paid at all, because the holders of them have already received in the way of interest, as much money as the bonds cost them, or, if it must be paid, then the payment should be in greenbacks, as being the next thing to not paying it at all—that is to say, the payment of the bonds ought to be repudiated—or if that be impossible, the next thing to repudiation ought to be done.

Let us look a little closer at this proposition. Suppose Mr A gives his note to Mr. B for one thousand dollars, with interest at one per cent. a month. At the end of eight years and four months, if A pays the interest promptly, Mr. B will have received just one thousand dollars in interest—just the amount of the note—but A will not have paid off one cent of the principal. Now suppose Mr. B wants his principal, ought Mr. A to refuse the payment of it on the ground of having paid a sum equal to it in the way of interest? Would not Mr. B be entitled to have principal and interest both? Would it be honest to refuse to pay him? Or would it be any less dishonest in Mr. A. to try to pay Mr. B. in a kind of money different from that agreed upon? If Mr. A. were living in your vicinity and were to try to play any such game as this, would not you and your neighbors regard him as a cheat? Certainly you would, and justly too. Now, if such a course is dishonorable in an individual it is equally so in the government.

Now, suppose Mr. Tilden should be elected President and Mr. Hendricks Vice President, and Mr. Tilden should die, as, being an old man, he is likely to do any day—would not the government be sure to do this dishonorable act? Would not the payment of the debt in greenbacks—or its repudiation out and out—be as certain as anything can be? The recent repeal of the resumption clause and the growing strength of the "soft money" views are indications that no one can mistake, of a settled determination on the part of the Democracy not to do the square thing in the matter of the payment of the debt.

From the dispatches this morning, it appears that the subject of British Columbia's grievances has caused considerable discussion in Canadian and English newspapers, the London Times favoring the claims of the Colonists and the Toronto Globe denying the principal points made by the Thunderer, charging that journal with ignorance of Dominion affairs. Whatever the result of Lord Dufferin's mission, it is fair to predict that it will be some time before the great object of the people of British Columbia the building of the Canadian Pacific railway—will be accomplished. This work is of such magnitude, the route it traverses so difficult, and the population at either end of the line so small, that it will be hard to get capitalists to venture the immense sum required, while it is likely to bankrupt the Dominion government if it should attempt the construction of the road by subsidizing it. Meantime there is a strong party in British Columbia in favor of annexation to the United States as the shortest way of getting Eastern connection, and there can be no doubt this would hasten the construction of the Northern Pacific, a line running parallel with the proposed Canadian road, several hundred miles of which is already in successful operation, and which would answer every purpose. Certainly more unlikely events have occurred than the admission of the State of Columbia, and although her citizens may not be able to vote for Hayes and Wheeler, they may yet take heart and cast their maiden vote for their successors.

When Mr. Lafayette Lane made the profound prediction that "the Northwestern State was good for fifteen hundred majority for Tilden and Hendricks," he no doubt mentally included himself as liable to be returned by an equally stunning majority, and in his case, at least, "the wish was father to the thought." But fifteen hundred is a very large majority in as close a State as Oregon, even with a man of such standing in the Democratic party as ex-Senator Nesmith as candidate, but with Mr. Lane as standard bearer it is likely to fall off a couple of thousand or such a matter, so that instead of being returned to Congress he is more likely to return to his native heath in Douglas county. It must be remembered that when he was elected there were four candidates in the field, and that the votes cast for the Independent and Temperance candidates will certainly be cast for Mr. Williams in November. Besides the Republican candidate is in every way so far the superior of the gentleman who made the above false prediction, that many thinking Democrats will no doubt cast their votes for him. Republicans have only to be active and vigilant, and we shall see not only Mr. Williams, but the entire National Republican ticket, elected.

AGAINST CAUCUS RULE.

The Benton Democrat in its issue of the 25th comes out squarely against caucus rule, and it is supposed to reflect the sentiments of the Democratic members of the legislature from that part of the State. It says:

> It is but a very short time now until the legislature meets, and of the most important of its many duties, and one which will probably demand its earliest attention, is the election of a United States Senator. As the Democrats have a very decided majority on joint ballot, it is certain that a Democrat will be chosen Senator, but who will it be? is the question now agitating the people. A number of our cotemporaries are very anxious that the Democratic members should meet in caucus and decide who is to be the man, and then elect him on the first ballot, when the matter comes up in joint convention. This, it is claimed, is a good old Democratic rule, but it is, we think, a rule more honored in the breach than observance. By the caucus rule the most wily politician, the one most expert in managing primary and county conventions, can usually succeed in getting the nomination and those who participated in the caucus feel themselves bound to support its nominee. Rather, let as many as wish for the position or whose friends see fit to put them forward be placed in nomination, and then the man receiving the election will be more nearly the choice of the people of the State at large. There are many Democrats spoken of as candidates for the position, any one of whom would represent our State with honor, and we would like to see each of them given a fair chance before the entire legislature.

ORIGIN OF THE CHINESE QUEUE.—The history of the Chinese queue is told by the Rev. Julius Doolittle, a missionary in China, as follows: The first Emperor of the present dynasty, who began to reign in 1644, having usurped the throne, determined to make the tonsure of Manchuria, his native country, the token of submission of the Chinese to his authority. He ordered them to shave all the head except the crown, allowing the hair on that part to grow long, and to dress it according to the custom of Manchuria. The Chinese had been accustomed, under native Emperors, to wear long hair over the whole head, and to arrange it in a tuft or coil. The change was gradual, but finally prevailed through the Empire. At first those who shaved their heads and conformed to the laws received, it is said, a present of a tael of silver, after awhile only half a tael, and then only a tenth of a tael, and afterward only an egg—finally even an egg was not allowed. The law requiring the people to shave their heads and braid the queue was not only rigidly enforced by the penalty of immediate death, but it became very manifest that those who did not conform to the wishes of the dominant dynasty would never succeed in a lawsuit against those who did conform, nor would they succeed at the literary examinations.

A San Francisco correspondent of the Transcript says: "The ship Brown Brothers is now discharging here. She is a new ship, built expressly for carrying spars from Puget Sound, and is under charter to load at Tacoma. Her tonnage register is 1,473. She is provided with four bow ports, the two lower of which take in sticks five feet in diameter. She will be, without exception, the finest vessel that ever visited Puget Sound."

On Aug. 16 Lewiston and the surrounding country were visited by a terrific water spout, doing considerable damage, especially to the road between Snake river and Clear Water ferry. Teamsters on their way down say the rain descended in solid columns and came pretty near sluicing their outfit into Snake river.

A celebrated gourmand once said: "To enjoy a stuffed turkey thoroughly, there should be only two present—yourself and the turkey."

MAGNUM BONUM SHIRTS!

For sale by

FISHEL & ROBERTS,
Cor. First and Washington Sts.

THESE SHIRTS FULLY BEAR OUT THEIR name, and are regarded by all who have worn them to be par excellence of Shirts. The arrangement of making the Magnum Bonum on which the Patent has been granted, is simply that of closing the side of the shirt all the way down to bottom of hem, and that of having the shirt opened in the center of the front and back about seven inches from the bottom hem. The undeniable advantages are briefly: It covers the legs and hips and does not work up uncomfortably, like an ordinary shirt; it always keeps its place, not only around the bosom but on the back; it does not contain any surplus material, and can be folded smoothly and laid away without creasing. It is the most convenient shirt for traveling by rail, carriage or horseback, because it works all the cloth downward in each drawer leg. It is manufactured from the very best material, and is bound to supersede all other styles of shirts in use.

A simple trial of this Shirt will prove to the wearer all that is claimed for it.

BRIEF NOTES.

The oyster season has commenced.

The original Georgia Minstrels to-morrow evening.

To-day two weeks and the State Legislature will convene.

Prof. McGibeny and family are now at Oakland, California.

Last Saturday, one year ago, the Bank of California suspended.

Large quantities of wood are arriving daily by the west side train.

But few seasiders remain at the coast, judging from the large numbers arriving every day on the Astoria boat.

The school formerly taught by Miss Batchelder will be reopened on the first Monday in September by Miss Piper.

His Honor Judge Shattuck will go down the river this morning for the purpose of holding a special term of court at Astoria.

Board of equalization will convene to-day. Taxpayers with grievances should make their petitions known or "ever after hold their peace."

We learn that the butcher boys of Portland propose to give a picnic some time during next month along the west side railroad, near the city.

The Daily Olympian says: "Several Oregonians have died from the effects of smallpox in San Francisco." We should like to know who they are.

Another case of smallpox has been reported to Chief Lappeus, who lost no time in having the patient removed to the pest house and properly cared for. There are only two cases now in the city.

The editor (so-called) of a down street sheet startles the world with the announcement that fish-eating promotes brain growth. Why does the fellow continue to crowd the verge of idiocy when a string of suckers can be purchased for 25 cents from the Chinamen.

A man in East Portland lost 14 geese yesterday. They swam across the "raging canall" and landed on the bottom opposite the brewery, near the macadamized road. He went after the truants and succeeded in driving them home after considerable trouble.

There is at present much complaint about the neglected condition of the streets and sidewalks. We confess that good reasons exist for such censure. The working season is rapidly passing, and there is a world of repairing to be done. It is high time that needed improvements commence.

OREGON WOOLS—MECHANICS' HALL.

PORTLAND, Aug. 27, 1876.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

The executive committee of the Oregon State Agricultural Society have decided to erect a Mechanics' Hall and have the same in readiness for the coming fair. Profiting by the suggestion of the Hon. J. C. Carson, of your city, we gladly announce for the encouragement of home industry, and to the mechanics and manufacturers of Oregon, and to all mankind, that the hall will be completed for the coming State Fair, commencing Oct. 9th; and we would respectfully urge upon all the importance of making this the grandest and most attractive exhibit ever made in our State. After visiting the extensive furniture rooms of the Oregon Manufacturing Company in your city, also the U. S. custom house building with its finish of Oregon ash (surpassing in beauty anything we have ever seen of the kind), together with various other manufacturing establishments in the State we are convinced that as a State we can boast of as skilled mechanics and of as substantial and beautiful native wood, and material, and are prepared to manufacture as handsome and substantial furniture wares as can be manufactured elsewhere. As this may be the last chance for a Centennial exhibit for any of the now living, let Excelsior be our motto, all contributing to make it one grand display, worthy the occasion. The press is requested to publish the above.

W. P. WATSON, President.

AMUSEMENTS.

THE GEORGIA MINSTRELS.—This company of minstrels, composed of twenty colored artists, are now on the Sound en route for this city. They will make their initial appearance at the New Market Theater to-morrow evening with a splendid bill. This troupe will play every succeeding night of this week, and also give a matinee Saturday afternoon. It is superfluous to add to the accumulated testimony of the intrinsic and artistic merits of the Georgia Minstrels. They are the "old originals" and their organization dates back many years. The company has traveled all over the United States and have been greeted in every city and hamlet with crowded theaters, and their performances received with general public favor. Everywhere the press speaks in flattering terms of their merits, and commends them to the patronage of the public. For several months the Georgia Minstrels played in San Francisco, drawing nightly overflowing houses. Crowded houses may be confidently expected during their brief stay in Portland.

STATE NATURAL HISTORY SOCIETY.

A preliminary meeting was held at Salem, Aug. 25, of persons interested in the organization of a State Society of Natural History. Rev. P. S. Knight was chosen chairman, Jos. W. Marsh secretary.

An executive committee was appointed to call and arrange for a meeting in Portland, during the Christmas holidays, of all interested in the permanent organization of such a society, with a view of then effecting it. This committee consists of Rev. P. S. Knight, Salem, chairman; Prof. A. J. Anderson, Portland; Rev. Mr. Somers, McMinnville; Rev. T. Condon, Eugene City, and O. B. Johnson, Forest Grove.

JOS. W. MARSH, Sec'y.

Fresh Shoalwater Bay oysters at Burk & Cornart's. Leave your orders.

Buy while the opportunity is offered—Fishel & Roberts are closing out at a sacrifice.

Drop in at Barnes', Central Market, to-day, something new to please you.

The lady who borrowed the red tidy worked with white daisies, six months ago, will please return it to Mrs. M. A. Warner.

Clothing sold cheaper than ever at Kohn's, corner Morrison and First streets.

One of the coolest spots in town is the "Fountain," where Peter Wilhelm holds forth. He keeps the best liquors and cigars, and Weinhardt's best beer. His billiard tables are excellent, and the "Virginius" pool table continues a favorite.

This centennial year has witnessed in the sewing machine trade one of the greatest and best improvements of the age. We refer to the Wheeler & Wilson No. 8, a machine which universally is acknowledged to be superior to to anything in use.

W. L. ADAMS, M. D., A. M., LL. D., corner of First and Salmon streets, is curing the most inveterate chronic diseases of all kinds at a low price, by medicated, electric lightning cream baths, and by combining the German and French with the American improved practice, mixed with a little common sense. His treatment is, in the main, entirely original, and works almost miracles, as his numerous patients will attest. Is extraordinarily successful in treating female complaints. Sore eyes speedily relieved. The worst form of piles cured, and the most malignant cancers eradicated root and branch without the use of the knife, or the money refunded.

ROUGHING IT.

A short time since a party consisting of four amateur nimrods and disciples of Izak Walton, desirous of a brief respite "far from the maddening noise and strife of the city," set out for a trip to the mountains. First and foremost was Joe, the life and soul of the party, who is somewhat of a musical genius, and who, upon his cornet, afforded to his companions no little diversion. Next in order came Eph, the handsome man of the quartette, to whose skillful manipulation of the ribbons, they are indebted for being carried in safety over the rocks and rough places. Ike, the third in order, prided himself on being able to make the best coffee; but as this honor was claimed by each of the four, and as that liquid was of a somewhat doubtful character, the merit, if any, was of rather a questionable nature. Frank, the fourth and youngest of the party, was armed with an old rifle, a relic of the war of 1812, and was bent upon achieving distinction by killing a bear.

Fully armed and equipped with ammunition sufficient to kill all the game in the country, they left Portland on the morning of the 21st inst., drawn by two very respectable representatives of the equine race, attached to a spring wagon. Taking the road which runs in the direction of Mount Hood, it led them along past farm houses and fields, many of which gave evidence of the thrifty husbandman, and promised ample returns for the labor bestowed upon them. Anon it passed through "forests primeval filled with the murmuring pine and the fir tree," which, from their abundance and quality, would seem to indicate Oregon, at some future day, as numbering ship-building among her leading commercial interests. The luxuriant and fantastic growth of moss is also calculated to attract attention. Where the road first strikes the Big Sandy the view from the high, overhanging bluff, at the foot of which dashes the tortuous foaming river in its rocky channel, with Mount Hood looming up in the background, grand and solitary, forms a picture strikingly beautiful and picturesque.

Having traveled some twenty-five miles, the first halt was made by the side of a small mountain stream, and while Joe and Ike built the fire and prepared the noonday meal, Eph cast his fly for trout, and Frank, shouldering his rifle, sauntered into the woods in search of game. The dinner, which consisted of hot coffee, cold-boiled ham and hard-tack, being ready, was announced by the bugle call, sounded by Joe on his cornet. If the degree of relish with which it was partaken of be any criterion, it was certainly a most excellent meal. Pushing on again the Sandy bridge was reached about 3 P. M., when, ascending the steep, precipitous bluff beyond, Eph drew rein before the door of a small cabin occupied by a somewhat eccentric old genius, whom the party afterwards facetiously dubbed "The Doctor," from the fact (so he told them) that he had practiced medicine in Missouri. It proved upon investigation, however, that his skill had been confined to horses only. The doctor's family consisted of a wife and daughter, together with a son of thirty years of age, a tall, gawky specimen of humanity, who had lately led to the hymeneal altar a youthful bride of thirteen summers.

The evening meal, to which a relish was imparted by a fine trout caught by Joe, having been dispatched, the cornet was drawn forth, and the quartette proceeded to give an open air concert—vocal and instrumental—in which the leading performer was Joe, ably seconded by Eph and Ike, who, though not remarkable for their musical talent at home, perceiving the interest and attention manifested by the doctor and his family, gathered courage, and warming up did full justice to the occasion, proving that "a prophet is not without honor save in his own country and among his own people." Having passed the night in the haymow of mine host, the next day was spent in catching trout in the Big Sandy, and shooting game on the neighboring hills. On Wednesday, the 23d, the party pushed on eight miles further, and arrived at the place owned by Philip Moore—quite a noted hunter and mountaineer, who has resided there during the past eleven years, subsisting to a great extent upon game killed by his unering rifle. His favorite sport is hunting bear, in which he is assisted by his faithful dog, a large, powerful animal, part hound and part Newfoundland. This dog is also very fond of fishing, and will stand upon the bank watching for salmon trout, which can easily be seen in the clear, shallow streams, until, seeing his prey, he makes a sudden spring into the water and seizing it returns to the shore.

Spending a day here in fishing and hunting, Frank and Ike started on ahead, while Eph and Joe followed with the team and camp utensils, the destination being some ten miles distant, at the conflux of the Big Sandy and Little Sandy rivers. Frank and his companion descended the mountain's side to what is called Siever's creek, intending to fish for trout, and following the creek to its junction with the Little Sandy, to continue on down that stream until camp should be reached.

Having fished for a time with moderate success, the lateness of the hour and intricacy of the walking confirmed them in the opinion that in order to reach camp that night, the wagon road on the mountain must be sought at once. So, starting up the steep slope, covered with brake and fern together with briars and logs, they accomplished a half mile of the most difficult walking, or rather clambering, they ever experienced. Pursuing their course along the road, when in the midst of a dark wood, a black object was suddenly seen to dart from one side of the road to the other, and pause beneath the shade of a distant tree. This attracted Frank's attention at once, and hastily grasping a huge club, he exclaimed in an undertone, "A bear! a bear!" Ike drew his revolver, and the two resolving like heroes of old to conquer or die, advanced to the attack. What was their chagrin, however, upon approaching the object to find nothing but an immense black hog. Alas! how many noble resolutions perish, simply for want of some worthy object upon which to exert themselves. Arriving at camp, footsore and weary, with the day's tramp, and having partaken of a hasty meal, they wrapped their blankets around them, and with the lap of mother earth for a couch—the blue canopy of heaven for a covering, soon sleep, "tired nature's sweet restorer," lulled them into pleasant dreams, the central figure of which was a bear dancing a jig with a big black hog.

Nearly a week having transpired from the time of starting, camp was broken up on the morning of Saturday the 26th inst., and the quartette wended their way homeward, leaving the camp fire smouldering, and bidding farewell to pleasant associations, the recollection of which will long remain among the bright things of the past.

As a matter of interest to some, perhaps, the following statistics are appended: Average age, 23; average weight, 155 lbs; average hight, 5 feet 10 inches; married, 1; would be if they could, 3; smokers, 3; would if it didn't make him sick, 1; good looking, all.

STATE TEACHERS' INSTITUTE.

Third Day—Afternoon.

SALEM, Aug. 25, 1876.

Composition and rhetoric was discussed by A. F. Campbell in a well written paper.

Miss Emma Clawson unfolded her plan for teaching small pupils to read. She prefers the boy to be ignorant of the "letters." She uses the word method. She takes a simple word at first, pronouncing it as a whole, then each oral element separately.

Joseph Marsh succeeded with three of his children with the word method, but failed with the fourth.

Mrs. Willson thought the true teacher rose above systems, and took what is good from all places.

Miss Nellie Taylor thought no method will answer for all pupils.

T. R. Coon read an essay on universal education.

S. W. King talked a short time on the subjects of institutes. He said institutes are an innovation in which there are allowed large latitudes to the teacher. He was in favor of well organized efforts and carefully prepared papers, for what is worth doing is worth doing well. He dwelt upon the importance of the teachers' work and importance of a thorough preparation, for we are writing on youthful minds and instilling sentiments that are to play an important part in the world's history. The profession has reason to be proud of the record. He mentioned the different methods of perfecting this fitting—the normal school, institutes, reading journals of education, etc. In the organization of institutes he would have but one head, and make that committeeman responsible for the work done. Thought the Institute particularly fortunate in having but one man for the executive committee for the 1877 session. He, although no prophet or son of a prophet, thought the next Institute will prove to be the best one yet held. He had a word of severe criticism for those who promise to prepare work and then absent themselves from the session.

Several other gentlemen followed Mr. King, but as your correspondent was absent on committee work, he cannot give even the names of the speakers.

The committee on resolutions reported the following, which were adopted:

Resolved, That this Institute take this method of expressing its obligation to the O. C. R. R. Co., the O. S. N. Co., the W. T. Co., the proprietor of the Chemeketa hotel, for the reduction in favor of teachers, of the traveling and hotel fares.

Resolved, That this Institute express its obligation to the Christian Society of Salem for the use of its church building, and to Leo Willis for the use of a piano from his music store.

Resolved, That this Institute respectfully asks the State Superintendent of Public Instruction to collate from the reports of the county superintendents their reasons for deficient reports, and present the same to the coming State Legislature, in connection with his office reports.

Resolved, That this Institute respectfully ask the Oregon State Legislature, at its next session, to make the lawful age of school children from 6 to 20 instead of 4 to 20.

Resolved, That when this Institute adjourns, it adjourn to meet on the Tuesday before the last Tuesday in August, 1877.

We the executive committee being impressed with the beauty and simplicity as well as thoroughness of the manuscript geography offered by Mr. Rogers, desire to offer the following resolutions:

Resolved, That the teachers of this Institute fully appreciate the value of the labors of Mr. Rogers, and heartily endorse his plan of object teaching in geography.

Resolved, That in the opinion of this Institute, the superintendent of public instruction ought to be authorized by the State Board of Education, to grant to teachers who may attend the State Teachers' Institute one or more days, and, who are actually teaching in this State, certificates of attendance, stating the number of days in attendance.

Resolved, That it is the sense of this Institute that equal labor should receive equal pay regardless of sex.

Resolved, That the Oregon Educational Monthly truly merits the patronage and earnest support of teachers and other friends of education throughout the State.

In the evening the Institute was entertained at the Opera House by Rev. S. G. Irvine of Albany, and by J. P. Wager of Multnomah county, who had a well prepared paper on elocution. Hon. Syl. C. Simpson was introduced to the audience which received him with cheers, but he refused to speak on account of the lateness of the hour.

The business of the session being completed it adjourned in persuance of a resolution above reported.

PILES! NO CURE, NO PAY! PILES!

PILES OR HEMORRHOIDS, FISTULA IN ANO AND OTHER DISEASES OF THE RECTUM CAN BE CURED. Those suffering from the above distressing complaints would do well to call and see me soon, as I expect to go to Olympia in a few days, and visit other points on the Sound. I shall be absent a month or six weeks. Remember if I do not give relief and cure you, I shall not charge you for my services or the medicines used. To persons of limited means I would say, should you suffer because you are poor? My answer is, no! COME AND BE CURED. Rooms on Third street, between Washington and Alder; P. O. Box 247, Portland, Oregon.

Edward Bayer, Esq., Horton, Kings Co., N. S., writes that an astonishing cure has been effected on his daughter by the use of Johnson's Anodyne Liniment. The whole spine became diseased, she lost the use of her limbs, and her back was rounded up like a bow, in consequence of taking cold after having been innoculated for the kine pock. She is now well.

SEATTLE ITEMS.

Our correspondent at Seattle sends the following items under date of Aug. 24th:

Times are at present more quiet in Seattle than for a long time.

The Levi Stevens arrived here yesterday afternoon. Loads Seattle coal.

Court is in session, Judge Lewis presiding. A full docket to dispose of.

The bark Lizzie Williams sailed for San Francisco this afternoon with Seattle coal.

The Front street grade is progressing slowly, as a large amount of dirt is to be moved before the required grade is reached. Rev. George Edwards, who has the contract, is using every energy to complete it at an early day.

The new barkentine built here is nearly rigged, and will soon go to sea for San Francisco with about 420,000 feet of lumber.

A Y. M. C. A. has been formed here recently, and is at present in a prosperous condition. Rev. Mr. Bonnell gave a lecture before the society yesterday evening, which was listened to with profit by a large audience.

The trial trip of the beautiful little sternwheel steamer Nellie gave her owners the utmost satisfaction. She is but 84 feet long, yet it is claimed for her that she can make 10 knots per hour, and that she ran from Olympia to Seattle in 4:20.

The North Pacific, which was hauled off the Olympia-Victoria mail route for a general repair, will soon be on the line again, as she is expected on in a few days. The Annie Stewart, which took her place, seems to have given very general satisfaction, although she is not near so fast a steamer as the Pacific.

At last Seattle's greatest need is to be supplied by the establishment of a daily mail service between here and Tacoma. A steamer will probably leave here every morning at 4 A. M. and reach Tacoma in time for the train for Kalama, and remain at that place until the return of the train, when the mail will be taken by it, reaching Seattle at about 9 P. M. the same day.

ODDS AND ENDS.

A French giantess has married "the wandering skeleton," a remarkably thin man, attached to the show with which she travels. She wanted a husband she could see through.

"Marie! what's that strange noise at the front gate?" "Cats, sir." "Cats! Well, when I was young cats didn't wear stove-pipe hats and smoke cigars." "Times are changed, sir."—Chicago Journal.

A Kentucky schoolmaster whose wife was one of his pupils had occasion to punish her one day. The next day the school house door bore this inscription: "School closed for one week: schoolmaster ill."

"Gen'men," exclaimed an old Connecticut salt, as he grasped the brawny arm of a Yale College oarsman and called the company's attention to its muscular development, "gen'l'men, thar's intelleck for yer."

WHY INCUR THE EXPENSE of costly Medicated Baths for the relief of local skin diseases, gout or rheumatism, when they may be got rid of at a trifling cost by means of GLENN'S SULPHUR SOAP.

FARMING ITEMS.

The grape crop in Douglas county this year will be larger than usual.

Fruits on the upper White river (W. T.) settlement will be very plenty, and the potato crop better than was expected.

The frame of the Alden Fruit Preserving Company's dryer, in Roseburg, has been raised, and will soon be enclosed.

Chas. H. Burch, of Yamhill county, has over two thousand bushels of wheat and one thousand bushels of oats from this year's harvest. The wheat went about thirty bushels per acre. Beat this, if you can.

Throughout Yamhill county the fall wheat is light, while the spring crop is yielding well. This is a reverse of former years. However, the farmers would be happy if they could get $1 per bushel.

The Courier says wheat is worth but 62 cents per bushel at St. Joe, with no offers being made. Messrs. Gates & Olds are building an extensive shed for the purpose of storing grain. There is but very little grain being hauled in at present, consequently the warehouses are not filling very fast. Williams & [illegible] are prepared to buy all the wheat offered.

The Vancouver Independent says: The region of country in and around the Fifth plain, 12 miles north-east of Vancouver, is a good farming location and is settling up and improving rapidly. HOW THE TURKS ARE FIGHTING.—A Montenegrin is always armed, even while performing peaceful work; he bears a pair of pistols, a yataghan and a poignard, [illegible] a knapsack loaded with ammunition. All his leisure hours are devoted to exercising his skill in warlike feats. Accustomed to [illegible] and privations, the Montenegrins [illegible] with fortitude and even with gayety all the hardships of a campaign. They jump from rock to rock with the agility of a chamois. To die on the battle field is the greatest favor Providence can grant to them. Arms, a piece of bread, a clove of garlic and a pint of [illegible], an old smock frock, two pairs of sandals made of unbleached skin, that is all their equipment. The sight of their enemy makes [illegible], and it is impossible to restrain them from going through. As they lay down to shoot, they are rarely wounded, while their bullets spread destruction in the ranks of a regular army. Their incredible audacity defy all the plans of the French Gen. Lauriston during the first empire, when that general resolved to send to Paris two Montenegrins whom he had made prisoners, one of them broke his head against the wall of his cell and the other refused all food till he died of starvation. In 1856 two thieves were sentenced to be executed on the same day; and the strange particularity of their execution reflects faithfully the manners of the Montenegrins. Several hundred inhabitants were gathered and they all fired at the same time on the banditti, that the parents and friends of the latter should not say: "This one or that one has killed our parent or friend."—Baltimore Gazette.

The Roseburg Independent says: "The workmen who have been employed in the main tunnel of the Lucky Queen mine for the past several weeks in taking out ore from the southern side in the large vein, were shifted over to the north-western side of the tunnel last Saturday, when a solid vein of quartz, three feet in width and richer than ever before found was discovered. From this vein over a hundred tons of quartz have been taken since the shaft was made, and now there is from 600 to 700 tons of quartz on the dump ready for crushing."

Locally there is nothing of special importance to note in financial circles. The demand for loans shows no increase as yet from the grain movement, indicating that the volume of actual transactions in that line is limited notwithstanding a number of vessels to load are at hand. While capital is not over-abundant and rates quite firmly sustained the available resources of the market are regarded as ample to meet all existing or probable legitimate demands.

Trade matters are moving forward with some activity and city merchants are filling up their stocks for the fall business and look for a brisk and moderately large volume of trade, though the reduced yield of the wheat crop and the low prices for the cereal will necessarily somewhat limit the trade of the country. In general merchandise there is almost universally a low scale of prices prevailing, the present depressed condition of trade in the East having now its due influence in reducing prices here, an effect observed on the Atlantic coast some time ago.

In the line of domestic produce only a moderate degree of activity, and prices are unchanged.

The ship Titan is discharging at Astoria.

The brig Sea Waif will be due from San Francisco next week.

The Astorian gives the following lucid explanation of the way in which the ship Buckinghamshire got aground at the mouth of the Columbia: "The Buckinghamshire got aground exactly in the same manner that Ira Mayfield mashed his fingers in the Oregon City Enterprise press. Accidentally. He had plenty of other places for his fingers, but they got in there somehow. Can anybody explain the mystery of accidents?"

The cargo of the Hera, in Geo. W. Hume's packet line, hence August 20th for San Francisco, was valued at $87,900; 16,000 cases of salmon, 1,500 hides and other freights.

The ship Titan, Captain Berry, has been "fixed" for Liverpool. She will be ready to receive freight in a few days. Dr. A. C. Kinney is agent for the ship, to whom application may be made at Astoria for room.

The City of Sparta is still at the Astoria dock, but will soon be off for Liverpool direct.

London Markets.

[BY TELEGRAPH.]

LONDON, Aug. 26.—Business in Mincing Lane during the past week has been inanimate, but prices have not receded further. Some kinds of produce have attracted more attention. Numerous cargoes of rice arrived off [illegible] have sold at current low rates, as have several large parcels on spot. The rice markets generally have been rather firmer at slight recovery. Sugars were very active till middle of week, when buyers ceased operations, and the tone of the market became quietly quiet. Good to fine coffees have sold slightly higher, especially Colony, Plantation and Ceylon. Tea market continues unsettled by further large arrivals. A moderate business was done, but prices were somewhat irregular.

VALUABLE LANDS FOR SALE.

600,000 Acres in

EASTERN OREGON!

For Farming and Grazing Purposes.

THESE LANDS ARE SITUATED IN WASCO, Grant and Baker counties, and are offered for sale in such sized tracts, not less than 160 acres, as purchasers may desire. Here is afforded a most favorable opportunity to immigrants and settlers seeking homes and low priced land to acquire both on the most reasonable terms. These lands are excellent for farming and grazing. On most of the tracts no grubbing, or other preparation of the land for plowing is requisite. A growth of nutricious grass covers the uplands, affording the best of pasturage, while in the valleys and bottom lands the grass can be mowed and made into hay. Living springs and streams water the lands in various directions. The uplands, or rolling lands, can be put into crops with the most satisfactory return. Fruit, particularly peaches, plums, grapes, apples, pears and cherries, as well as the smaller fruits, can be grown in great abundance. The climate of Eastern Oregon is very healthful. Flourishing towns are located at convenient points for traffic; the mails are regularly conveyed throughout that section, and a prosperous population is already established, occupied in farming, stock growing, mining, and various other pursuits.

Terms, $1 25 per acre and upwards, according to quality and quantity. Interest ten per cent. on deferred payments.

Choice Farms for Sale.

4,000 ACRES, IN QUANTITIES TO SUIT PURCHASERS.

230 ACRES DUE SOUTH AND ADJOINING the Railroad Depot at Salem, all under cultivation, and suitable for grain or vegetables.

946 Acres, four miles southeast of Salem, on the railroad, with Mill creek running through it. This is the choicest farming land in Marion county, with fine springs, consisting in part of the old Rector donation claim, on which I raised the past year fifty bushels of wheat and three tons of timothy per acre. The first crop of oats ever raised on part of this land measured ninety-four bushels per acre, grain weighed and ground chained by Mr. Alfred Stanton, of Salem.

2,700 Acres of prairie and light brush land, with timber for fencing purposes, bounded by the Willamette River for four miles, beautiful lake on the east, boat landings all along the river, commencing four miles north of Salem—all choice grain land—the largest and most suitable body of land to be found in the Willamette Valley to be purchased by a colony. To be sold from $15 to $25 per acre. This land will all be immediately resurveyed, and can be sold in larger or smaller parcels, to suit purchasers. It can be subdivided to the best possible advantage, and I can offer any person or persons, or colony of persons, desiring to purchase homes in the best part of the Willamette Valley, near the city of Salem and within reach of the best social advantages, as well as most favorably located with respect to markets, greater advantages, on more favorable terms, than they can ever expect to realize again.

THOMAS CROSS.
